Who Should Attend?

- Teams with at least two school district individuals (administrator and District PD Chair suggested)
- PD members who wish to gain more information on how to determine PD needs.
- PD members who want their district to win a Commissioner's Award
- Audience: Prefer school team of administrator and PDC chair or lead teacher with a maximum of 4 per district. This is based on a first come first served basis

GOALS:

- ❑ Advance the understanding of the critical connection between professional learning and student learning through the application of the NSDC Standards for high quality PD.
- ❑ Develop the leadership, planning, implementation, and facilitation skills necessary to support school-focused staff development.

Learning Outcomes:

- Apply knowledge of effective professional development practices in assessment of local needs.
- Complete an SAI assessment and see immediate outcomes then learn how to facilitate discussions and plan around the data as aligned to your SIP.

What will the criteria be?

1. Any school who has been or wishes to be involved in taking the SAI through DESE Leadership Academy.
2. Any district staff developer/PD chairperson will be considered an additional priority for schools involved with administration and discussion of SAI results.
3. Any administrator from a school or district whose teachers are participating or wish to participate in administration of the SAI.
4. District support for substitute days, registration and travel to the training.
5. Access to technology for administering the SAI at their home school/district.

The tool to use for PD assessment effectiveness and school improvement planning.

The National Staff Development Council (NSDC), a non-profit association of over 10,000 members, is deeply committed to ensuring success for all students through the application of high standards for educators' professional learning. The National Staff Development Council's Standards for Professional Development are grounded in research that documents the connection between staff development and student learning. There are twelve standards that are categorized as either context, process or content standards. Each standard is a statement of the staff development expectation and establishes the level of performance to which all organizations can aspire.

NSDC contracted with the Southwest Educational Development Laboratory (SEDL) to develop a new assessment instrument based on the twelve national staff development standards. The instrument would be completed by teachers and other school staff to measure the degree to which a school's professional development program adheres to the standards. This instrument is intended to be used in conjunction with an Innovation Configuration (IC) for each of the standards (Roy & Hord, 2003), thereby providing schools across the nation with a mechanism for diagnosing and aligning their professional development programs with the NSDC standards.
